RingCentral for Firefox

Save time and boost productivity by seamlessly blending business communications in your Firefox browser environment.

Firefox, the second most popular browser for desktop in the world and widely praised for its performance and unique customizations, now has an additional "feather in its cap." The RingCentral for Firefox extension enables users to take advantage of RingCentral's rich communications capabilities—phone, video, SMS, conferencing, and fax—without leaving Firefox or the users' persistent Google applications, simplifying workflow and increasing productivity.

Features

Calendar

- Schedule and join RingCentral meetings from Google Calendar.

Firefox browser softphone

- View your complete communications history (voicemails, faxes, and messages).

- Access active call control features (multi-way call, transfer, record, flip, etc.).

- Combine your RingCentral and Google contacts in one easy-to-search screen.

- Click to dial or click to SMS phone numbers within your favorite G Suite applications, such as Gmail, Google Docs, Google Calendar, and the Firefox browser.

Benefits
Seamless integration with Firefox

- Automate tedious tasks to increase efficiency and ease of use by connecting RingCentral with the web browser you use every day.

Streamlined business communications

- The RingCentral for Firefox extension reduces the need for users to turn to other tools while working in their Google applications.
Productive team collaboration

- Collaborate as a team with the ability to schedule and join conferences to keep projects moving forward.
